Bohlin Cywinski Jackson
307 Fourth Avenue | Suite 1300
Pittsburgh, PA 15222
p | 412.765.3890

Michael D. Maiese, AIA, Senior Associate at Bohlin Cywinski Jackson, a preeminent architecture, planning and interiors firm. Bohlin Cywinski Jackson has five offices, three in Pennsylvania - Wilkes-Barre, Pittsburgh, and Philadelphia, one in Seattle Washington, and one in San Francisco, California. Mike is part of the senior management team responsible for the Pittsburgh office.

Mike's twenty-three year career has focused on the planning and design of technical buildings and creative workspace. His experience with construction technologies, building systems, and construction delivery methods comes from a broad spectrum of projects ranging from adaptive reuse to high end retail, with a particular focus on technically sophisticated buildings that integrate the client's program into facilities that speak of the character of the institution. Mike's experience has been at varied scales with evolving glass and envelope technologies. In June Mike spoke at 2013 Glass Performance Days in Finland, presenting a paper on Advances in Decorative Glass Technology Expand Functional and Aesthetic Possibilities.

Michael is a Senior Associate and began his work with the firm in 1989. Michael has a diverse range of project types including, corporate office and technical research buildings, creative workplace projects, signature academic/campus projects, parking structures, high-end retail, and private residential, with an emphasis on sustainable, energy efficient design. He has a range of expertise in designing productive work places for people be it in the design of research laboratories, or creative workplace / office environments.

Throughout his time at BCJ, Michael has been involved in many major projects with a hands-on, client-focused, results driven approach, able to build consensus and deliver collaborative solutions to problems in a proactive manner. He brings experience working with complex design and construction projects through all phases, and delivering projects with strict deadlines and budget constraints while maintaining design quality.

Michael's experience with construction technologies, building systems, and construction delivery methods comes from a diverse range of projects ranging from adaptive reuse to high end retail, and is particularly experienced with technically sophisticated buildings that integrate the client's program into facilities that speak of the character of the institution.

Rakow Library, Corning Museum of Glass

Michael's recent projects have been successful incorporating energy saving and sustainable features. The Southern California Creative campus project recently achieved USGBC LEED Platinum certification, and Caltech's Schlinger Chemistry and Chemical Engineering Research Building achieved LEED Gold certification.
