President and Director of Design bostwickr@bostwickdesign.com

Robert Lewis Bostwick AIA is President and Director of Design at Bostwick Design Partnership, an architecture firm based in Cleveland, OH and Erie, PA. The firm specializes in the design of medical, educational, and library projects, creating facilities having a fine sense of detail and a unique sense of identity.

Robert is responsible for establishing the firm's design direction and setting overall strategy. Robert emphasizes innovation in both design and project delivery, and he works with owners and contractors to cultivate progressive, team-based approaches to project organization. A frequent presenter on user experience and project delivery models, Robert shares his knowledge and ideas at major conferences, speaking in San Francisco, San Diego, Chicago, Nashville, Austin and Salt Lake City, and in Saudi Arabia, Kuala Lumpur, Seoul and Damascus.

Before establishing Bostwick Design Partnership, Robert was a Senior Associate with Cesar Pelli in New Haven, Connecticut, where he designed large scale commercial and institutional projects in New York City, Buenos Aires and Washington D.C. Robert received his Master of Architecture degree from Yale University and his Bachelor of Arts from Bucknell University. While at Yale he was Associate Editor of Perspecta 24, Yale's journal of architecture.
